Cookies give you a smooth ride when surfing around on our website. This cookie page describes what types of cookies we use, which information is being collected and how that information is being used. For information regarding the processing of your personal data, please see our privacy policy.

We use cookies, web beacons and similar technologies (“cookies”) on this website in order to collect visitor statistics and to improve your experience on this website.

1. What are cookies?

A cookie is a text file placed on your computer, mobile device or tablet by web page servers when you visit websites. Cookies can be stored for varying lengths of time on your device or browser. Some are deleted when you close your browser, and some remain stored until actively deleted or when they reach their expiry date.

We use two types of cookies on our website: session cookies and persistent cookies.

- Session cookies are stored during the period there is an active session, i.e. during the period you use the website. Session cookies are normally deleted when you close your web browser.
- Persistent cookies are stored on your device until the set expiration date for each cookie or until you manually delete the cookie from your device.

Web beacons are transparent images that may be included in e-mails sent to you.

Similar technologies are technologies that store information in your web browser or on your device in a similar way as cookies and web beacons.

2. Different types of cookies

In addition to session cookies and persistent cookies, cookies are generally divided into first-party cookies and third-party cookies. A first-party cookie is a cookie that is set by the website you are visiting, whereas a third-party cookie is a cookie set by a third-party. We are using both first-party cookies and third-party cookies on this website.
